Why Train Your Employees?

Even when your IT department has barricaded your cyber back door… Just a simple click on a link, attachment or website by just one employee can open your front door to a catastrophic data breach.

Hackers are good at their job – they study predictable human behavior. Whether you are a small business or a fortune 100 company, academia or government agency, you need to train your employees on proper cyber and data security behavior. URS Cyber courses are designed to do just that… train your employees on proper cyber and data security behavior.

URS courses focus on helping businesses in multiple industries teach their workers best security awareness practices to combat the onslaught of cybercrime.
